◆ Teaching Method

Combine speaking with practice and taking the lead in listening and speaking. All classes adopt a comprehensive teaching mode, implement the teaching principle of combining speaking with practice and taking the lead in listening and speaking, adhere to the principle that Chinese is the main teaching language while English as a supplement. All classes need to strengthen the application-oriented teaching concept: to select the typical usage of the vocabulary in different contexts in vocabulary teaching, so that learners can learn the correct use of vocabulary in the context; to guide students to understand grammatical meaning in the context in grammar teaching so as to improve students' ability to form words and sentences.

Combine the examination and teaching. To combine with the HSK exam, simulate the HSK real question types in both class teaching and after-class practice, and arrange the simulated exam to help students familiarize themselves with the real question types and difficulty, and accumulate exam experience. Provide an online HSK simulation question bank on the Hanya International APP for students to practice and take the simulate tests.

Enhance students' language output. To improve students' speaking ability, emphasis is placed on less speaking and more practice. Simplified classroom teaching language is used to guide students in learning and understanding new content, and a combination of graphics and text is used to help students quickly understand. Context creation, questioning, or practice are used to guide students in expressing their output, while after-school exercises with different question types are also used to help students review and consolidate learning content.

Strengthen the systematic teaching of cultural themes. To enable students to have more interest and understanding of Chinese language and culture, and to focus on the utilization of video resources, 120 cultural themed videos from "Great Wall Chinese • Hanya Cultural Park" are used as the main teaching resources. Combined with language course learning content, the themes are matched one by one, so that the cultural theme content is systematically integrated into the Chinese language learning, enriching the teaching content.
